

Welcome, fair traveller, to my Mayfair sanctuary, Mr Fogg's (fairly) Secret Garden. A hideout from the hectic stresses and strains of modern life. London's floral bolthole, if you will.

To ensure guests' utmost relaxation, all horticultural tasks have been entrusted to the green-fingered Passepartout. Your only obligations: germinate a libations order; and cultivate convivial conversation.

Whilst in repose, I urge you to heed the words of my dear friend Ms Frances Hodgson Burnett: "If you look the right way, you can see that the whole world is a garden."

OPUS VICTORIANA
